

We absolutely LOOOOVE how Timepress works and what they are capable of delivering.

When we call them, they answer.
When we email them, they reply.

They get things sorted efficiently and quickly, always making sure they understand the purpose of requested changes, so there is no work and time wasted.

Yup, we know these qualities should be usual and normal because they basically say „they are normal decent human beings“ but as anyone in the IT industry knows, it’s less usual than you’d think.

We started this project to prevent manual mistakes in offers we send to clients because, in these situations, even one zero less can mean a huge loss for the company.

Now, we don’t have to go through all the numbers multiple times to see if they’re correct. We just know they are. Regarding the time spent on calculating and preparing every single offer to a client, we went from 3+ hours to a couple of minutes, and from more than zero mistakes to exactly ZERO mistakes.

We would definitely recommend you to ask these guys for help if you struggle with something.
